▼ PERSPECTIVE

The struggle between the human immune systems (innate and acquired) and the microbial kingdoms is an ongoing, perpetual contest. The addition of 21st century challenges such as the toxic environment, dramatic rise in the use of dangerous drugs, processed foods, and overall stress mean that many people's genomes struggle to maintain a normal equilibrium. Support with herbal foods is one choice to address the plight of the cells in our modern world.

#243 IA (Imperial Ataker)

#403 ATAK (Immune Rejuvenator, capsules)

The liquid form of the famous ATAK (Immune Rejuvenator) formula that addresses the 21st Century's unique and evolving immune relations challenges, particularly with consideration to mutating and evolving human microbiomes and acquired environmental terrain challenges. Designed to support the body's normal immune system with key botanical molecules plus the bioenergetic impact of "body electric" communication networks. This liquid version of the ATAK formula provides rapid assimilation of the herbal properties.

▼ INDICATIONS

- Ongoing immune relations with acquired and existing microbiomes
- Immunological "tune up" of normal processes
- Support normal quorum sensing processes
- "Winterization" support

▼ KEY COMPONENTS

- Pau D'Arco – Traditional rainforest herbal bark, rich in compounds such as lapacho, often used to support normal immune system activities, especially lymphocyte and granulocyte mobility activities.
- Yarrow – In the herbal tradition, Yarrow assists normal purification processes, removes excess "heat" and can stimulate normal flow of regulatory fluids.
- Stevia – Best known as a natural, non-sugar sweetener of beverages and baked goods, Stevia is a traditional South American botanical that supports normal immune and glucose metabolic activities.
- Calcium Carbonate – Essential for the body to appropriately absorb calcium. Used in this context as a "botanical binding" ingredient.
- Tayuya – A famous rainforest botanical used for thousands of years in South American herbology and Brazilian hospitals. Cited to be purifying.
- Gravel Root – Often employed in traditional herbology as supportive of normal kidney and gall bladder processes. Cited in herbal texts to support the body's normal purifying activities.
- Pimpinella – Provides anethole (anise like flavor). Herbalists employ pimpinella for a wide variety of uses to support normal immune, muscle, and hormonal balance.

▼ CONTRAINDICATIONS

None when used as recommended. Best to not engage cleansing programs during pregnancy or in the early times of breast-feeding.

▼ CLINICIAN CONSENSUS

- Doc Wheelwright's Intranoidal Microbial Relations Support Program (liquid version):
#243 IA - Imperial Ataker
#2041 CXGt - Thymus
#2003 CX3 - Bactrex
#2004 CX4 - FungDx

▼ BACKGROUND

Doc Wheelwright searched for many years to find a way to properly employ the herb, yarrow, because of ancient text references. He classified yarrow as a "polyionic" herb, meaning that it was simultaneously catabolic and anabolic (cationic and anionic). Polyionic herbs are often known as adaptogens. In Doc's system of herbology, polyionic herbs were difficult to work with in combination with other herbs. The Imperial Ataker and the ATAK formulae were major breakthroughs in his research and he conducted several experiments with the ATAK formula. Doc taught that most people don't die of new diseases; they die from all the diseases that they acquired during their lifetimes that become "intranoidal" diseases, e.g. mutated variants that take up residence in the body's extracellular matrix that "activate" e.g. quorum sense and become more harmful later in life when the immune system is weakened. Doc recommended periodic "Purification Support" to help the body relieve its burden incurred via the daily immunological preoccupations.
